BRIGHT BRIEF AND BREEZY

GIDEON'S IRONSIDES.

THEY were still too many. The open challenge is followed by unconscious test. The Lord commanded Gideon to bring his ten thousand men to the river, and He would prove them there. The march was long, and the situation critical. But at last water was reached, and the men have permission to drink. Those who stooped down and lapped the water from their hand were approved, but those who flung themselves down, and went in for a good drink, were to go home and wait for the next fight. The test was perfect. The eager, alert, determined, lapped, with their eyes on the out-look for the enemy. The thoughtless, self-indulgent, and undisciplined gave themselves up to the quenching of their thirst. And Gideon's ten thousand were reduced to three hundred. We are seldom conscious of our critical tests. Great issues hang on unaccountable trifles. We are tested by trifles when we least suspect it. Trifles mark essentials. Each man stood declared by the way he drank. Thus God brings up His fighting host to its required strength by reducing it. It is not by addition, but by purification He makes His Ironsides. Our strength is not adding to our numbers, but according to our intensity. God can do more with three hundred picked, brave, determined men than with thirty thousand swept out of the street. Cromwell, centuries later, proved the same thing. He wrote to his friend: "I have a lovely company; . . . honest, sober, Christian men. I raised such men as had the fear of God before them; such men as made a conscience of what they did; and from that day forward they were never beaten." That is an Ironside: "A soldier whose whole soul was ribbed and plated all round with sound morals and true religion.—Samuel Chadwick.

WOULDN'T WORK IN THE BREWERY.

A Noonday Prayer Meeting Incident.

A man who had been through a Social Elevator had succeeded in getting a job at a brewery. Pleased at the "fall of luck" that had fallen his way, he came to the Headquarters at Whitechapel, to say that he had got a job. He came just as the noonday prayer meeting was in progress. He was present at the meeting, and at its conclusion told the Brigadier that he was going home to write a letter to his prospective employer declining the situation. His conscience had troubled him in the prayer meeting, reworking in a brewery. He had had enough of the drink.

DRINK AND INSANITY.

"Our Asylums Scream With Alcohol."

Dr. F. H. Walmecy, superintendent of an idiot asylum in the London Metropolis, says, "Half the misery and wretchedness of human life, with much of the crime of the land, is but the outcome of an abnormal state of mind and morals produced by drink. Our asylums scream with alcohol, and our prisons groan with its victims. Taken to excess, alcohol is, in its passage through the organs, everywhere equally a destroyer. Upon the brain and nervous tissues it is a direct poison, leading to formidable maniacal excitement or to chronic alcoholism, with its long train of symptoms, betraying mental, moral, and physical degradation—the whole man being reduced from a higher to a lower plane of existence. On the offspring the effects are disastrous. Children come into the world pre-natally handicapped by hereditary taint, bearing the stigma or brand-marks of degeneracy, unfitted—mentally, morally, and physically—to hold their own in the struggle of life. Of all diseases, insanity is one of the most preventable, and, in the present state of medical science, one of the most incurable."

A TOUCHING INCIDENT.

Among the "Fresh Air" children who arrived at a farm near Pittsfield, in the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts, one day last summer, was a poor little tot who, as she was lifted from the wagon, caught sight of a field of daisies. With a cry of delight she darted to the rail-fence the moment she was set down, and, scrambling under it, threw herself face downwards, among the beautiful white-and-gold blossoms, clasping them in her arms and sobbing as if her heart would break. She had never before seen flowers growing. During her stay she spent all her time among them, and when the moment came to pack her shabby little bag, it was found to be filled with flowers. A touching poem about this pathetic incident, "The Fresh-Air Child," by Elliot Walker, is published in the August number of the Ladies' Home Journal.

TROUBLE AND TROUBLES.

Taking trouble is the best way to avoid troubles. The lack of taking trouble has been the means of making trouble in many lives. Have we not seen most cheerful workmen who take great pains? And have we not often been perplexed and saddened by the lives made cheerless and painful just for the lack of taking pains? One of the American novelists has said, "There is not so much difference in the troubles on this earth as there is in the folk that has to bear them." And perhaps the greatest difference is the difference between those who take their trouble first, and those who wait for it to come afterwards. It is a homeopathic remedy this, where like cures like.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE?

One of the commonest mistakes, and one of the costliest, is thinking that success is due to some genius, some magic—something or other which we do not possess. Success is generally due to holding on, and failure to letting go. You decide to learn a language, study music, take a course of reading, train yourself physically, work with the Bible. Will it be success or failure? It depends upon how much pluck and perseverance that word "decide" contains. The decision that nothing can overrule, the grit that nothing can detach, will bring success. Remember the Chinese proverb, "With time and patience the mulberry leaf becomes satin."

THEATRE-GOING.

Rev. F. B. Meyers holds decided views on the theatre, and gives several don'ts for Christians: Don't go—because the atmosphere is essentially materialistic and sensual, and indisposes for prayer and faith. Don't go—because the majority of theatre-goers are not Christians, and it cannot be expected that those finer shades of morality will be observed with which Christ has familiarized us. Don't go—because even if you do not suffer moral taint, your influence and example may lead others to follow in your steps who will not be able to resist the evil influences of the average theatre-goer's life, but will drift into the sensational and sensual, to the ruin of their nobler qualities of the soul."

THE USE OF THE BIBLE.

Booker T. Washington says, in the story of his life, "Up from Slavery," "Perhaps the most valuable thing that I got out of my second year at the Hampton Institute was an understanding of the use and value of the Bible. Miss Nathalie Lord, one of the teachers, from Portland, Maine, taught me how to use and love the Bible. Before this, I had never cared a great deal about it, but now I learned to read the Bible, not only for the spiritual help which it gives, but on account of its literature. The lessons taught me in this respect took such a deep hold on me that at the present time, when I am at home, no matter how busy I am, I always make it a rule to read a chapter before beginning the work of the day."

RIGHT INTOLERANCE.

Canon Gore in an address at Westminster Abbey recently, insisted strongly upon "the duty of right intolerance." He said, "And what we have got to re-learn is that there is a complete false tolerance. It is the falsest kindness to let people imagine that they can live rightly in the world unless they are prepared to keep themselves separate from the evil. . . . It is only plain common-sense to be intolerant of that which destroys the human soul and destroys the human society, and we have got plainly to learn over again the duty of adopting a quite decided attitude towards vice and viciousness. We cannot live as other people live. We must have our clear principles of living, as tolerant and wide as Christ is wide and tolerant, but no more wide and tolerant than He is."

RELIGION IN DAILY LIFE.

We read a pretty story of St. Anthony, who, being in the wilderness, led there a very hard and strict life, inasmuch that none at that time did the like; to whom came a voice from heaven saying, "Anthony, thou art not so perfect as is a cobbler as dwelleth at Alexandria." Anthony, hearing this, rose up forthwith, and took his staff and went till he came to Alexandria, where he found the cobbler. The cobbler was astonished to see so reverend a father come to his house. Then Anthony said unto him, "Come, tell me thy whole conversation, and how thou spendest thy time?"

"Sir," said the cobbler, "as for me, good works have I none, for my life is but simple and slender. I am but a poor cobbler. In the morning when I rise, I pray for the whole city wherein I dwell, especially for all such neighbors and poor friends as I have; after, I set me at my labor, where I spend the whole day in getting my living; and I keep me from all falsehood, for I hate nothing so much as deceitfulness; wherefore when make any man a promise, I keep it and perform it truly, and thus I spend my time poorly with my wife and children, whom I teach and instruct, as far as my wit will serve me, to fear God. And this is the sum of my simple life."

In this story you see how God loveth those that follow their vocation, and live uprightly, without any falsehood in their dealing. Anthony was a great holy man; yet this cobbler was as much esteemed before God as he.

The law that holds this universe together is the law of affinities: like will seek like. Make our love law for the good things of time that go into eternity with you.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

In spite of its capacity for hard work, the elephant seldom, if ever, sleeps more than four, or occasionally five, hours.

Cooking utensils of aluminum have been adopted in the Madras lunatic asylum, because they require less fuel than others.

Japan is the country where the cremation of corpses is practised on the largest scale. The custom dates back about 1,500 years.

Tasmania is 4,000 miles less in area than Ireland. The names of the eighteen counties are almost all taken from English counties.

The number of Protestant Christians in India and Ceylon has, in fifteen years, grown from 446,780 to 753,541—nearly 70 per cent.

American locomotive engines supplied to a Swiss railway company are said to be failures, and in future British locomotives will be tried.

In a single year the French police expel over 4,000 foreigners from France. Of these, about 1,400 are Spaniards, 1,500 Belgians, and 500 Germans.

Lord Curzon, the Viceroy of India, speaking at Simla, India, said if he were called to a high office in England, "temperance would have no back place in his program."

Several pairs of pigeons, which a scientist has observed in Paris, have raised their young in nests made entirely of hairpins collected on the paths of the Luxembourg.

There are no millionaires in Iceland. The people there are all poor, but there are no dependents and no paupers in the land. All are self-supporting. There is little or no crime in that land.

Whilst all factories and works in Russia are in a state of great depression, reducing hands and waste, and many practically becoming bankrupt, there is one industry yielding enormous profits, namely, breweries and distilleries.

It is nine years since the Trans-Siberian Railway was commenced, and 3,240 miles of rails have been laid, showing an average of 360 miles a year. The connection between Europe and Vladivostok is now assured by means of the steamship service in the centre of Siberia.

The gramophone is a great source of pleasure to Turkish ladies. For some years it was strictly forbidden; now nearly every house is provided with one, and the ladies sit around and roar with laughter every night at its productions. Nearly all the gramophones are fitted with cylinders giving Turkish songs and stories.

The more rigidly-enforced press censorship of war news from South Africa again veils that portion of the globe in darkness. Many rumors float in the air, but little real news is known. Peace rumors are most persistent, and it is said that Dr. Leyds, the Transvaal Agent, is at the Dutch Embassy, London. The Boers are still fighting in many isolated points. A train from Cape Town was held up near Beaufort West, and burned. Three British were killed and eighteen wounded. Another British force of 300 men was attacked by Krizlager's commando. The forces stampeded, and Grabbe fell back on Mortimer. The concentration camps now contain 110,000 prisoners, being 85,410 whites and 23,499 colored. There were 777 deaths among the whites in the camps, including 576 children. The colored persons had five deaths only. Several Boer prisoners at Bermuda have escaped by swimming, but have been recaptured. A detachment of mounted troops occupying Bremersdorp, was forced to evacuate by a superior force of Boers. The detachment fought their way out for sixteen miles, losing ten in killed and wounded. Bad blood was caused among the Boer prisoners at St. Helena by a number of these taking the oath of allegiance. Fighting resulted, which necessitated the separation of the two factions. A Boer commando, with women and children, has entered Portuguese territory and will be disarmed. 33,000 Boers have been made prisoners, or have surrendered, since the beginning of the war until July 1st.

British Briefs.

The King has requested Parliament to make a grant of $500,000 to Lord Roberts for his services in South Africa.

The British Agent for Egypt has been created a peer, and is now known as Lord Cromer. He has now earned his promotion.

The King has presented medals to 3,000 yeomanry. Thirty-two non-commissioned officers and men refused to attend, claiming their pay was in arrears and their families starving.

It is proposed to change the present title of the King to "Edward the Seventh, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, and Emperor of India."

Lord Mountstephen has given $200,000 to augment the salaries of the Church of Scotland ministers in Aberdeenshire and Banffshire.

The Harvest in Canada.

An excellent harvest yield is expected throughout Canada. The wheat yield in Manitoba and the North-West Territories is estimated at from 55 to 65 million bushels. Grave fears are entertained that not enough laborers can be secured to harvest it.

Animal and Human Consumption.

At the Berlin Tuberculosis Congress of Scientists, Dr. Koch stated that he believed the animal species of tuberculosis to differ essentially from the human kind, and that the former could not be transferred to man. Other scientists are divided in their opinion of this view.

A Horrible Death.

An explosion of petrol on board the American schooner, Louise Adelaide, in the Stockholm harbor, resulted in the death of Capt. Orr, ten men of the crew, and four custom officials. The explosion set the boat on fire and the blazing oil enveloped the vessel. Two of the crew were saved.

Steel Workers' Strike.

The strike of the steel workers, at Pittsburgh, looks threatening. The company is seeking an injunction against the strikers from interfering in any manner with the men now at work, while the strikers claim that the company is anxious to bring about a conflict in order to claim the aid of the sheriff and the military.

The Fire Fieled.

MacLaren's Timber Limit, in the Gatineau District, is on fire, and the flames are spreading. Quebec Crown Timber Agents assert that the recent fires in the Temiskaming District caused a damage of at least two million dollars. Glace Bay, C. B., has had a serious fire. Davenport, Iowa, had a disastrous fire consuming from twenty to thirty blocks of houses and sawmills. The loss is $700,000. Many people barely escaped with their lives. Fire at Laprairie, Quebec, destroyed twenty-six dwellings, and a number of business establishments. The Canada Paper Co's mill, at Windsor Mills, was burned. Damage $200,000. A forest fire in Sweden has assumed such gigantic proportions that 3,000 troops have been ordered out to aid in subduing the flames.

Casualties.

A little girl was drowned at Owen Sound. A farmer's wife near Clarence Creek was fatally injured by a vicious horse. A dentist and a young lady of Compton, Que., were drowned by their boat upsetting. A fireman was run over by a train at Little York, having both of his legs cut off. A section foreman was run over and killed by a G.T.R. train near Cornwall. The Rev. A. B. Mackay was drowned at Seven Islands. A 14-year-old boy was drowned at Stony Lake. A small boy was run over and fatally injured at Niagara. A little boy playing in a new structure, Toronto, had a heavy stone fall upon him, inflicting injuries from which he died. A young woman at Harrowsmith was killed by a sawing machine. Mrs. J. McCormack, of Kingston township, was killed by a westbound C.T.R. train by stepping in front of it, trying to avoid a westbound train. A young man of 20 was fatally injured by a Wabash construction train near St. Thomas. A German lad was drowned while bathing in Ottawa River. A farmer of Huron county, while shingling a roof, fell to the ground, receiving injuries from which he died. A Manitoba farmer died of injuries received in a recent cyclone.

Miscellaneous.

Mrs. Carrie Nation has been sentenced to another 50 days in jail at Topeka, Kansas.

A party of Americans, with a boat loaded with whiskey, were captured near the Manitou Indian Reserve, Rainy River.

Ottawa lumbermen will invite the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall to trip down the Ottawa Rapids on a crib or square timber.

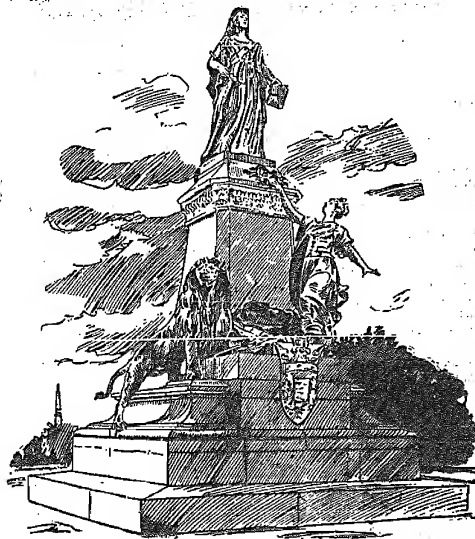

Hallstones weighing three pounds are reported to have fallen in a Russian district. Three men and much live stock were killed, and the crops greatly damaged.

The price of coal at Ottawa has dropped from $7 to $5.25 per ton.

Winnipeg has an offer from Mr. Andrew Carnegie of $100,000 for a free public library.

Two supposed cases of bubonic plague were found on a steamer which arrived at Plymouth from Sydney.

A CANADIAN STATUE OF THE LATE QUEEN.

The new statue of Her late Majesty, Queen Victoria executed by the Canadian sculptor, Hebert, caps a pretty little knoll to the west of the main building on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, which, in turn, commands a magnificent view of the Chaudiere Falls and the Ottawa River for five or six miles up that stream. The figure of the Queen is draped, and will so remain until it is formally unveiled. But enough was seen of it while in process of erection to call forth very general admiration. The British lion, too, and the allegorical figure which ornament the base are both of them worked out with good effect, and the only criticism heard is in regard to the pedestal, which does not meet with universal approval. It is understood that the Minister of Public Works proposes taking the advice of Mr. Hebert himself on this point. It is not as massive as some think is desirable to correspond with the statuary. It seems to be understood that the unveiling will take place during the visit to the capital of His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York.

The Late Mrs. Kruger, Wife of Ex-President Kruger.

Two parties of English tourists and their guides lost their lives by falling over precipices. One party was ascending the Matterhorn, the other Mount Cervino.

Turkey refuses to allow a Greek squadron to visit some of her Asiatic ports.

All tariff duties between Porto Rico and the United States have been abolished.

Twenty thousand Baptist Young People's Union delegates have assembled at Chicago for a convention.

A New York dock company, with a capital of twenty million dollars, will make improvements and greatly extend the present wharves of that metropolis.

Natural gas was struck at Whittby, Ont., in a well drilled in the park.

Geo. Kennan, the American author, has been expelled from Russia because he has published too much of Russia's affairs and prisoners.

The Mad Mullah was routed in a fight with the British, losing seventy killed.

Venice is gradually but surely sinking in the mud, and will ultimately disappear below the waters of the Adriatic Sea.

Heavy earthquakes were experienced in some sections of Nevada.

A Montreal girl out of employment starved to death at New York, too proud to ask assistance.

DEATH OF MRS. KRUGER

Mrs. Kruger, wife of former President Kruger, of the South African Republic, died on July 20th, of pneumonia, after an illness of three days. She was 67 years old.

Owing to the Sunday telegraph hours in Holland, says a despatch to the Daily Mail, from Hilversum, "Mr. Kruger was not informed of his wife's death until the evening. The news was broken to him by Dr. Heymans and Secretary Boeschoten. Mr. Kruger, who had just returned from Hilversum church, burst into tears, and asked to be left alone.

"He exclaimed, 'She was a good wife. We quarreled only once, and that was six months after we were married.' He prayed for a long time, and is now calmly sleeping, his Bible by his bed.

The Transvaal and Orange Free State flags flying above the white villa were draped and half-masted. Shortly before the news came a crowd of country girls had been singing a folk song outside the villa."

WATCH YOURSELF.

What a subtle kind of heartache we give others by simply not being at our best and highest, when they have to make allowance for us, when the dark side is uppermost in our minds, and we take their sunlight and courage away, by even our unspoken thoughts, our atmosphere of heaviness! Oh, to stand always and eternally for sunlight and life and cheer.

SATURDAY

Hosea xiii. 1-6.—Israel signed his own death-warrant when he lapsed into Baal-worship. Therefore the nation can but drift away like cloud, or chaff, or smoke. How little the Lord deserved such treatment! But Israel's destruction has already begun; they shall be torn piecemeal. The metaphors of a lion, leopard, and bear, bringing punishment, teach us that abused goodness turns into great severity. That the judgments of God, when they come against impenitent sinners, will be very terrible and irreversible. They will rend the cords of the heart and fill the soul with confusion.

Hosea, ch. 1-16.—"Ephraim is a cake not turned." Burnt to a coal at the bottom, raw dough at the top, there fore good for nothing on either side. It is said to think how many, who after a sort, confess religion, are as cakes, or rather as scones, which, as it is, so it should be, a constant self contradiction, and always in one ex treme or the other. What strangers did for Ephraim, sin does for us: it robs us of our strength, and it robs us of our strength by wrong doing. The Barabbas of sin is robber. Those that make not God their strength, make that their strength, which will soon be devoured by strangers. The greatest lesson taught us by the ignorance of the grey hairs. It is possible to be gradually losing our religion, and yet not to know it. The love of the world may be its cause, and the world may be its friend, yet we may be unconscious of it. How watchful we should be.

THURSDAY.

People xi. 1:12.—How gracious the Lord was to Israel. They were a people to whom He had done more than for any people under heaven, and to whom He had given more. Again and again He had proved His parental love, and yet how ill the people had responded to Him. When they were young, in the earliest stages of their natural existence, that love was manifested. Those of us who have grown up ought often to reflect upon the goodness of God to us in our childhood. What father's love is manifested itself in words, and the Lord trained Israel to walk, then when he was tired He carried him in His arms, and when sick He healed him. God's spiritual Israel are thus treated to-day. The same love flows out towards us. We are His children, love never. The drawing with the cords of love is a new image suggested by x. 11, and gives a further description of the fatherly love of God. Not with violence suited to an unruly son, but with gentleness, as a father, He binds the cords such as men can bear, did the Lord win His people's obedience.

TUESDAY.

Hosea 1: 1-17.—The discourse here taken a new start. The prophet is witness of the wild rejoicings of the harvest, and warns his people not to be so exuberant, for they must go forth into captivity. Three times in this and the next two chapters he recurs to the early history of the Israelites and of the people who were related to them. The Lord's mercy with rebellion and idolatry, so that Jehovah has no choice but to thrust them away. Let us not forget that the sins of those who have made a profession of religion, and who pass for the related to the Lord, more provoke Him than the sins of others. What a great privilege it was to have a lot in "Immanuel's land"; how sore the punishment to be driven out of it! It was like the driving out of our first parents out of Eden. The can- not dwell in the Lord's land that will not obey His laws, nor be influenced by His love. Israel, in fleeing to Egypt, thought to escape destruction; 'in this they were sadly mistaken, for Egypt became their grave. Those who think that they will escape the judg- ment of God, may meet their death where they hoped to save their lives.

Hosea x. 1-15.—"Their heart is divided" (verse 2). Israel, as a nation divided its allegiance between Jehovah and Baal, and so became good for nothing, and was given up to captivity. God has given us but one

LIFE'S DEPRIVATIONS.

And all goes well at first. When a new and great need came to them, as we read in Judges 1, they had no Moses to go to, they had no Joshua to go to, but they said, "We have our God," and they went to Him, and God told them what to do, and the issue was one of the greatest victories ever given to them. This is the good beginning; but when they did not go to Him, they did not like this great big gap in their life unfilled by the creature, and so they began to ask for a king; and God, in His anger, gave them a king—put the creature in the place that He, their Creator and God, coveted to fill. And, oh, how much poorer and weaker that king was than the God Himself! He wanted to fill the place that, in His kindness, Moses and Joshua had occupied for a time, they said,

"No: We Will Have a King."

Brethren, God leaves in your life and mine great gaps, great spaces.
 Father is taken, mother is taken, friend is taken, leader is taken. Love and friend—and we know it is He
 Who is doing it—are put far from us.
 We are left all alone and lonely, which at one time was filled with happy voices and helpful ministries, is all lonely and bare. What does this mean? It means this—that God wants to be more to us. And I have known many a man who has long quarrel with God because that space is empty. I have known even young lives to come into a wretched dispute with God because when He said,
 "I want to be more to thee," I said,
 "I don't want you." I have known and when He implied it that He might come in, that heart said, "No."

He Knew His Game

Now look at the eunuch. The man who gave Philip, and made the ministry a blessing—the God who gave him away. Nevertheless he went on his way rejoicing. The Who had given, and the God Who had taken away, could be more than He had given, and more than He had taken away. And when the faithful ministry goes on of rest for a few seconds, the eunuch is groaning. The God Who has given away a blessed thing waits for you than that thing ever was. And any ministry of the Gospel does not send its recipients away rejoicing in the manner of Him who is pleased to withdraw it assuredly, called to attain the highest success.—C. G. Moore.

The life of every man is a la which he means to write one and writes another; and his noble hour is when he compares the two as it is with what he would have it.

THE Zambesi Expedition which Livingston came to command from Liverpool to the Pearl, on March 18, 1855, reached the mouth of the Zambesi on April 10, and the party ascended the river from the Kongone steam launch, the Ma-Robert, on September 15. The murder of the party was aminating the river above, especially the Kebraassa River of the year 1855 was spent on, and much of the year 1856 was spent on, the promise to take such of the home as cared to go. In January next year, arrived Bishop and a party of missionaries by the river, and they established a station on the Upper.

After exploring the river for thirty miles in his new Pioneer, Livingston and his party put on their carriers, as the Chib'ra's; there they found trade rampant, desolating it and paralyzing all effort.

The Lady Nyassa was taken to Rovuma. Up this river Livi managed to steam 150 miles before his progress was arrested by the natives of the Zambezi. On ginning in 1863, Dr. Livingstone observed the first case of degeneration caused by the slave trade; it was more horrible and worse than ever. It was clear that the worst officials were those who had been victims of the trade. Charles Livingston being obliged to return to England on account of their health, the doctor resolved to go himself to see if he could get more to visit the lake, and as the distance was so great, he went further north-west as far as the mouth of the Congo, where he found the waters that run into the Nile. Meanwhile, recalling the report of April 1864, Livingston returned to the lake, and on June 9, 1864, he set out with nine native porters and four Europeans for Bombarda. He reached after an arduous voyage of a month, and on July 1, Livingston arrived in England. The results of the expedition, the leading objects being to ascertain through no blame of his own, unfortunate disagreements were varied, and for which he was acquitted, as he was by the natives at home; though it is not

THE Zambezi Expedition, of which Livingstone thus became commander, sailed from Liverpool in H. M. S. "Plover" on March 10, 1858, and reached the mouth of the Zambezi on May 14th, and the party ascended the river from the Kongone mouth in a steam launch, the "Ma-Robert," reaching Tette on May 25th. The remainder of the year was spent in examining the river above Tette, and especially the Koberabasa Rapids. Most of the year 1859 was spent in exploration, and at the close of the year was spent by Livingstone in fulfilling his promise to take such of the Makololo home as cared to go. In January, the next year, arrived Bishop Mackenzie and a party of missionaries, sent out by the London Missionary Society to establish a station on the Upper Shire.

After exploring the River Rovuma for thirty miles in his new vessel, the "Pioneer," Livingstone and the missionaries returned to the Shire to visit Chibisa's; there they found the slave trade rampant, despoiling the country and paralyzing all effort. On July 16th, Livingstone, accompanied by several of his native carriers, started to visit the Bishop the country. Several bands of and after peeling the missionary party settled in the highlands of Magomero, to the south of Lake Shirwa, Livingstone spent from August to November, 1862, in Nyassa. While the boat sailed up to the north end of the lake to near the north end, the explorer marched along the shore. He returned more resolved than ever to abolish the slave-trade, to route the civilized world to put down the desolating slave-trade. On Jan. 30th, 1862, at the Zambesi mouth, Livingstone welcomed his life and the life of his mission with a party of 1000 of his natives, with whom were the sections of the Lady Nyassa, a river steamer, which Livingstone had had built at his own expense, abounding with the most beautiful and best equipped boats, with all the best of his book and tools which he never parted with. When the mission ladies reached the mouth of the Ruo tributary of the Shirre, they were stunned and Mr. Burrup. This was a sad blow to Livingstone, seeming to have rendered all his efforts to establish a mission futile. A still greater loss to him was the death of a wife, at St. Louis, on April 27th, 1862.

The Lady Nyassa was taken to the Rovuma. Up this river Livingstone managed to steam 150 miles, but further progress was arrested by rocks. Returning to the Zambesi in the beginning of 1863, he found that the destruction caused by the slave trade was more horrible and widespread than ever. It was clear that the Portuguese officials were themselves at the bottom of the traffic. Kirk and Charles Livingstone being compelled to return to England on account of their health, the doctor resolved once to visit the lake, and to go to some distance to the west side, and then north-west as far as the watershed that separates the Loangwa from the waters that run into the lake. Meanwhile a letter was received from Earl Russell, recalling the expedition by the end of the year. In the end of April, 1864, Livingstone returned, and on the 30th he set out with nine natives and four Europeans for Bombay, which was reached after an adventurous voyage of a month, and on July 23rd, Livingstone arrived in England.

He was naturally disappointed with the results of the expedition, all its leading objects being thwarted through no blame of his. For the unfortunate disagreements which occurred, and for which he was blamed in some quarters, he must be held acquitted, as he was by the authorities at home; though it is not necessary to maintain that Livingstone was exempt from the trying effects on the temper of African fever, or from the intolerance of lukewarmness which belongs to all exceptionally-strong natures. Still, the results at the time, and especially those of the future, were great.

By Murchison, and his other staunch friends, Livingston was warmly welcomed as ever. When the expedition proposed him that he should go, he said, "I am not sure," seems to have had a desire to spend the remainder of his days at home, the prospect was too tempting to him. He was appointed by the M. S. consul to central Africa without salary, and the Government contributed only £500 to the expedition. The help came from private friends. During the expedition, the Government granted him £1,000, but that, when he learned of it, was devoted to his great undertaking. The Geographical Society contributed £1,000, and the main objects of the expedition were:

The Suppression of Slavery

by means of civilizing influences, and the ascertainment of the watershed in the region between Nyassa and Tancanyika. Leaving England in the middle of August, 1866, for Bombay, Livingstone arrived at Zanzibar on January 28th, 1866. He started for the interior of Africa on April 4th. His company consisted of thirteen sepoys, ten Johanna men, nine African boys from Nassick School, Bombay, and four boys from the Shire region. Besides camels, buffalos, mules, and donkeys. This imposing outfit soon melted away to four or five boys, leaving only the south and north Nyassa. Livingstone struck in a north-west direction for the south end of Lake Tancanyika, over country much of which had not previously been explored. The Loangwa was crossed on December 15th, and on Christmas Day Livingstone lost his four goats, a loss which he felt very keenly, and the medicine chest was stolen in January, 1868. Fever came upon him, and, for a time, was his almost constant companion: this,

With the fearful dysentery and dreadful ulcers, and other ailments which subsequently attacked him, and which he had no medicine to counteract, no doubt told fatally, even on his iron frame. The Chambeze was crossed on the 21st January, and the party of the Tanganyika reached on March 31st. Here, much to his vexation, he got into the company of Arab slave dealers, by whom his movements were watched. He crossed the river, reaching Lake Mwaia. After visiting Lake Mofwa and the Luolaba, which he believed was the upper part of the Nile, he, on July 18th, discovered the source of the Nile, and the west coast of Tanganyika, he reached Ujiji on March 14th, 1869.

"A Ruckle of Bones."

Supplies had been forwarded to him at Ujiji, but had been knavishly made away with by those to whose care they had been entrusted. Livingston recrossed Tanganyika - in July, and through the country of the Manyema. He was tried in vain, for a whole year, to get the natives to give up their trade, partly by the natives, partly by the slave hunters, and partly by his long illness. It was, indeed, not till March 29th, 1871, that he succeeded in reaching the Luabala, at the town of Nyangwe, where he stayed four months, and then returned to the coast, to take him across. It was here that a party of Arab slavers, without warning or provocation, assembled one day when the market was busiest, and commenced shooting down poor women and men, hundreds being killed or drowned. He had, indeed, a very unpleasant day, but he was not yanbe, where Stanley provided Livingston with a liberal supply of goods, and bade him farewell. Stanley left on March 15th, 1872, and Livingston had waited wearily at Uvuyembe for five months, a troop of fifty men, and a few hundred goods and faithful fellows on the whole, selected by Stanley himself. Thus attended, he started, on August 15th, for Lake Bangweulu, proceedings along the east side of Tanganyika, and the west side of the Congo, until him out. In January, 1873, the party got among the endless swamp jungles on the east of Lake Bangweulu, Livingston's object being to go round by the south, and away west, to find the mouth of the Congo, and the place, and the journey became one constant wade below, under an almost Endless Pour of Rain from Above.

The doctor got worse and worse, but the danger seems to have occurred to him. He died on the morning of April 6, but had unwillingly to submit to be carried in a rude litter. On April 29th, Chitamba's village, on the Lulima, in Itala, on the south shore of the lake, was reached. The last night in the forest was a storm. "Knocked up quite, and remain—recover—sent to buy milch goats. We are on the banks of the Mollamo." On April 30th, Ma, with difficulty, reached his catch, and early on the morning of May 1st, the boys found "the great master," as they called him, kneeling by the side of his bed, dead. His faithful men preserved his body in the sun as well they could, and wrapped it in a mat. Early on the morning of the 2nd, the boys, and others, and his papers, and other things, across Africa, to Zanzibar. It was borne to England with all honor, and on April 18th, 1874, was deposited in Westminster Abbey, and there, with tokens of mourning and admiration from the great and the good, and his greatest sons. Government bore all the funeral expenses. His faithfully-kept journals, during these seven years' wanderings, were published under the title of "The Last Journals of David Livingstone, in Central Africa," in 1874, edited by his old friend, the Rev. Horace Waller.

In spite of his sufferings and the many compulsory delays, Livingstone's discoveries during these last years were both extensive and of the highest importance. He was the first explorer who ever did a single African journey for the sake of knowledge. As African geography as Livingstone during his thirty years' work. His travels covered one-third of the continent. He explored the Cape to near the equator, and from the equator to the Indian Ocean. Livingstone was no hurried traveler; he did his journeys carefully, carefully observing and recording every detail. He was not content with rare geographical instances, but with the eye of a trained scientific investigator, studying the ways of the people, eating their food, living in their huts, and observing their joys and sorrows. It will be long till the world knows of the joys and sorrows of his sojourn dies out among the native tribes, who almost without exception, treated Livingstone as a gentleman. But the direct gains to geography and science are not the greatest results of Livingstone's journey. He was a developed and carried out to successful and unselfish purpose, with an

Unflinching and Self-Sacrificing Energy and Courage that entitle him to take rank among the great and strong, who, single-handed, have been able to influence human progress and the advancement of knowledge. His example and his death have acted like an inspiration, filling Africa with an army of explorers and missionaries. His life and his death have paved the way and raised the standard of the feeling against the slave trade, and it may be considered as having received its death-blow. Personally, Livingstone was a pure and tender-hearted man, full of humanity and sympathy, and was regarded as a child. The motto of his life was "Be advised." He gave to some school children in Scotland, "Fear God, and work hard."

EVANGELINE C. BOOTH, Commissioner.

The Commissioner to the Front.

The Commissioner's health is now so satisfactorily improved that she has made definite arrangements for a series of tent meetings, to be held in Dufferin Grove early in September. This beautiful locality is now so well known that we could not think of a better spot to pitch a tent, and it need only be known that Miss Booth will be there to fill the largest tent we can secure. The idea of tent meetings was a happy thought of the Commissioner's, and the public will much prefer an open tent in a cool grove, to an indoor meeting during our fine September.

Harvest Festival.

The Annual Harvest Festival is quickly approaching, and it is well that our thoughts should engage themselves with such preparations as will find us ready to put the machinery in motion when the appointed time comes. The engineer of the train which bears us swiftly across the country, had to have some time to clean and oil his engine, as well as to take in a supply of coal and water, and have the engine fixed, and sufficient pressure of steam in the boiler to start when the scheduled time calls for it. So, likewise, we should begin to review last year's effort, overhaul any deficiencies, oil up any parts where friction might occur, clean the dust and rust off every part, and begin firing, so as to have a good head of steam ready to begin the Harvest Festival effort.

The 36th Anniversary Of Our World-Wide Army.

A MESSAGE FROM THE GENERAL.

Y DEAR COMRADES.—Thirty-six years ago, in blazing hot weather, similar to that I am now experiencing in Denmark, from whence I send this message, I commenced those operations in the East of London, which of God's great mercy, and by His infinite blessing, have developed into the Salvation Army.
What a long succession of wonders this thirty-six years has been! Who could have foreseen what God was going to bring out of that seemingly small beginning? But His ways are not our ways. He still uses the worm to "thrash the mountains," and the insignificant instrumentalities of earth to confound and bring to naught the boasting agencies of hell, that He may have the greater glory, and that we may enjoy the greater reward.

GIVE GOD THE GLORY.

To what lofty position of honor and opportunity and influence He has brought this Army! We ought, in humility, to recognize His great favor, and we ought, with unceasing gratitude, to adore Him for what He has accomplished by us for the world's welfare. If we do not, we may expect the stones in every city where our flag is flying to cry out against us. Let us be careful to magnify His work and to give Him all the praise.

PROGRESS.

But what a fight it has been; truly we have had thirty-six years of solid, uninterrupted conflict, and of steady upward progress. There has been no cessation of the strife. Our enemies have given us no rest by night, or by day, while an unseen and mighty force has urged us forward to new aggressions on the territories of darkness, devilry, and death. That same power urges us forward to-day. Every soldier in our ranks, possessed of the true Salvation spirit, cries out with the Master, "I must work while it is day, for the night cometh when no man can work."

The first campaigns of the war were severe. How severe, only those who were privileged to have a share in the poverty and persecutions, the traillorisms and divisions of those years, can ever know.

Still they presented a picture of the holy strife that has followed with more or less severity in every part of the world where we have had the opportunities to fight, and that continues to this hour.

SEVEN LESSONS.

Those early days have their lessons and their memories. Both call upon us to be faithful to the principles and methods that were productive of such mighty results. Among other things

SPIRITUAL SPECIALS AT CHATHAM, ONT.

Glorious start to our ten days' camp here. Eighteen seekers for pardon and cleansing. Magnificent Sunday afternoon meeting in the park, tremendous crowd, one soul saved at the drum-head, and six dollars offerings given. Sunday night, while at open-air in front of the "Garden House," caught in a thunder-storm. The proprietor invited us inside, where a glorious meeting was held and a good offering given. Marching on to victory. Pray for us that we may keep the flag flying.—Pugnaire and Mantion.

Territorial News.

We are looking forward with small degree of pleasure to the visit of our honored General. At an early date we hope to be in a position to give full particulars of his Canadian campaign, the dates which are Oct. 23rd to 30th, inclusive.

Capt. Quant, of the Pacific Province, passed through Toronto, on her return from Sweden. The Captain had the pleasure of taking part in the General's recent meetings in Stockholm, which were wonderful. Over seven hundred Staff and Field Officers met the General in council. Capt. Quant takes charge of Lewiston, Mont.

The proposed Toronto Tent Campaign will take place in Dufferin Grove, Sept. 10th to 16th. We are looking forward to these meetings with great anticipation, and to hear once again our beloved Commissioner. A popular wedding will take place in connection with the above meetings.

An important Staff and Field change has just taken place in the North-West Province. The Staff Officer affected are Ensign Burton, who has been appointed to Moose Jaw; Ensign Taylor, to Devil's Lake, and Ensign Dean, to Rat Portage.

Major Horn, in addition to his duties as Trade Secretary, will take temporary charge of the Financial Department until a permanent appointment has been made by the Commissioner.

Staff-Capt. Archibald visited St. Catharines last week-end. His lecture on the Army's Prison Work, on Saturday, was listened to by a splendid crowd. The meetings on Sunday were well attended, and resulted in one good case of conversion. Adjutant Coombs assisted at night.

A large Field change has just taken place in the Central Ontario Province affecting about forty officers.

The Harvest Festival Hand-Book is in course of preparation, and will be in the hands of the officers in the course of a week or so.

The Chief Secretary is enjoying a well-deserved two weeks' furlough among the Chippewa Indians. The Colonel, we are pleased to say, is enjoying comparatively good health.

The Harvest Festival dates for 1901 are from Sept. 21 to 24, inclusive.

BEST WAY OF USING LIGHT.

We do not always get the good of a thing by fixing our attention upon it. A candle is a useful thing for him who uses it to see his work, but of little use to him who looks only at the candle. So the Lights God has given us are not always of much use to those who occupy their minds with studying them. There have been careful students of the Bible, champions of its authority, whose lives showed little influence of its precepts. The Bible is a light to men's feet, and is most honored as well as best used when men walk by it. It is something to be obeyed more than talked about. It offers us, indeed, the lesser delight, which comes with the bare knowledge of the truth, when we see its harmony and its beauty. But it always calls us to go on to the greater joy in the truth which comes with obeying and living it. "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

Whatever must be misrepresented in order to be ridiculed, is in fact not ridiculed; but the things subtitled for it. It is a satire on the thing else, coupled with a lie on the part of the satirist, who, knowing of having the means of knowing the truth, chooses to call one thing by the name of another.

UNITED STATES.

A splendid property has been secured in the centre of Honolulu, in which to carry on our Rescue operations. Ensign Larabee and Lieut. Tyholm have just arrived from the U. S. A. to take command. The need of Rescue Work in the Hawaiian Islands is too apparent.

Colonel Margetta is already making the rounds of his Province, going from corps to corps, and seeking to lighten the burdens of the officers who are in command.

The Penny Ice system is now in good working order, and the poor of Kansas City are getting ice supplied them at the rate of ten pounds for a penny.

There is rejoicing in the family circle of our American leaders in the birth of another little son to be trained for the Salvation war. The child gives every promise of health and vigor. The Concor is making very good progress, and will, with the blessing of God, soon be lending her inspiration at the battle's front.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The General continues his continental tour with increased energy and success. The Danish congress has been one of glorious surprises, all the more because the almost Indian temperature might have proved a formidable interference with the success of a campaign so especially dependent upon weather conditions, as one must be in the Danish capital in the heart of summer, but, instead, a larger crowd of soldiers than ever thronged the Temple for Council. The Concert Palace was twice filled on the Sunday, and in the evening, to suffocation, in the beautiful King's Gardens the record-breaking crowd, numbered by thousands, stood around the open-air stand for two hours, watching with intense interest the grandest salvation battle ever fought within its gates. Altogether, 151 souls came to Christ during the prayer meetings, which were fought with remarkable spirit and perseverance. The General, though tired from these exhausting northern campaigns, rallied wonderfully, and threw himself into each succeeding battle with renewed enthusiasm and vigor. About three hundred officers assembled in council.

A very interesting book on the Training Home will shortly be issued from the press.

Commissioner Ralston is spending some time in German-Switzerland, gathering together information to enable him to complete the life of Colonel Junker, which will be published simultaneously in England and Germany. The English edition will form a number of "The Red-Hot Library."

The South Shields I. Band have just completed a successful tour in Scotland. The total cost to the bandsmen of the ten days' tour was £100. Nearly five hundred persons attended knee-drill in the open-air. Some amusing incidents took place in the prayer meetings. A man, sitting in the front seat of the gallery, in his eagerness to reach the penitent-form, climbed over the front, swung himself along the iron bars that supported the stove-pipe, and slid down the latter to the penitent form.

AUSTRALASIA.

A booklet is being issued in Melbourne by the Commandant descriptive of the Army's work throughout the Territory for the last five years. The title is to be, "Five Conquering Years."

The Commandant, in connection with his farewell visit to New Zealand, has had a very successful campaign, including important officers' councils, soul-saving battles, Social demonstrations, and limelight exhibitions.

The annual Social appeal has just been held throughout Australia. A special Social number of the Cry appeared, and a great effort was made. The results are not yet announced.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Brigadier Pearce, the new Chief Secretary for South Africa, has now reached the Cape and taken up his new duties.

Commissioner Kilhey has received word from the authorities that a permit to visit the Rand is awaiting his return. He intends to visit Johannesburg at the first opportunity.

Adj. and Mrs. Joslin and Captain Pembrey (all from South Africa) are on furlough in England.

INDIA.

Good news has been received from India. According to a telegram from Simla on July 10th, the monsoon, or the season's rains, has been strengthening over both sides of India, and there has been fully an inch of rain during the past two days, over nearly the whole of the North-Western and Central Provinces, Central India, and Rajputana. Elsewhere there have been showers, and the situation is greatly relieved. We feel sure that our readers will rejoice that the gloomy fears that have filled men's minds concerning a repetition of the dreadful famine, can now give place to hopes for a normal rainfall.

FINLAND.

A great many prominent Finlanders attended our congress in Helmingfors for the purpose of hearing the French language used, although they had never been to the Army before. Lieut. Colonel Fornachon, from Stockholm, represented International Headquarters at the congress, and spoke in most of the meetings in French, which was translated into Swedish and Finnish. One of the meetings was carried on until after mid-night, and till forty prisoners had been captured for that day.

SWEDEN.

Great advance has been made in Sweden during the five years' command of Commissioner and Mrs. Oliphant. No less than 140 new corps and outposts have been opened. The number of officers has also increased by about 220, and the Social operations continue to develop.

A translation in Swedish of the Chief of the Staff's "Servants of All" is published from the Stockholm Headquarters. The fame of the book has gone before it, and its appearance in Swedish is hailed with great delight.

HERE AND THERE.

CORPS' REPORTS

Preaching Salvation to the Orange men.

Ottawa.—The S. A. is always ready for every opportunity that presents itself. On July 12th, there was a big Orange Excursion to Wakefield. A portion of the Army was also there. Adj. and Mrs. Kendall and Envoy Magee being present, the latter having made all arrangements. We held two rousing salvation meetings, the attraction being so great that we drew the crowd from all other amusements that were going on. We pray that God will richly bless the words that were spoken. On the Sunday following, two souls for salvation. Adjutant, with the band, was giving a helping hand to Capt. Slater, at Arnprior, while Mrs. Adj. Kendall led the whole here, storming the forts of darkness and capturing one soul for Jesus.—A. French, Sec.

An Old Officer Visits Us.

Riverside.—We are glad to report that Riverside is still alive. We have just had the Ibbotson Family with us, which drew a good crowd. We have also had a visit from Capt. White. The Captain is one of our old officers, and everybody was glad to see him back again. Our dear Lieutenant has farwelled. We were very sorry to part with her. The farewell social on Tuesday night was enjoyed by everybody present. We pray that God will go with the Lieutenant to her new appointment.—C. C. McCarney.

Not Letting the Grass Grow.

Fernie, B.C.—Hurrah for Fernie! Everything going with a swing, buildings going up all over, everything like mushrooms. A few souls have been saved since last report. Another visit from Major Hargrave resulted in splendid times. Come again, Major. S.D. almost forgotten. Target smashed a week ahead of time. Barracks and quarters secured; best of all, it's all paid for and furnished. Rent down to $1.50 per week. Two more Locals commissioned on Sunday—Sergt. Major Ed. Brown and Secretary Joseph Smith—also another soldier enrolled. Ice-cream social on Saturday night splendid success. After paying $15 for the cream, cleared $21. Sunday night, the biggest liar exposed from the platform. Good crowd. $8 collection in the open air on Saturday night. Junior picnic on Wednesday a sweeping success, no less than ninety present; splendid times, all tired and dusty.—Maple.

After publishing the Yearly Balance Sheet, the Fernie Free Press makes the following kind comment: "The above statement must be gratifying to Capt. and Mrs. Lacey, and the other Salvationists. The showing is an exceedingly good one, and would do credit to any church in Fernie. In fact, it is doubtful if any church here can make as good a one. The barracks is very neat and comfortable, especially the living quarters upstairs. No little credit is due to Capt. Lacey for the splendid showing made. He has worked hard, and to his own labors, to a large extent, is due the vast amount of improvements lately made in and around the barracks.

Locals Holding the Fort.

Blenheim.—This corps at present is without officers, but the comrades are taking hold well and are rolling the old chariot along. Sunday we marched out twelve strong, and a good open-air was held for thirty minutes. Who were the Specials? Why, Sergt. Garrod and Sec. Hills. Good inside meeting. Opening song by the Secretary. "Well all about Hallelujah!" Sergt. Garrod read the Word, taking for her subject, "Ye are the light of the world," which was very appropriate. How important it is that we let our light shine, and walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called. Adj. Coombs' Self-Denial notes on the District were much appreciated. Sergts. Garrod and McGinnis are pushing the Cry.—Aizina Groon.

After Seven Years' Wandering.

Pictou.—On Sunday night God came very near and blessed our meeting. We were all glad to see Mrs. Pugh out again. One dear brother, who had been a wanderer from God for seven years, came and asked God to take him in, as he was tired of sin. This brother was, at one time, a Band Sergeant, but in an evil hour he fell from grace. May God keep him true in our prayer. The reading of the General's letters in our soldiers' meetings is a great blessing to us.—Little Love.

Laboring in New Fields.

Burk's Falls.—Since last report the work has been going ahead, and a number of souls have been converted unto God. Capt. Matthews and Lieut. Meader have arrived to lead us on. We had good meetings all day on Sunday, with splendid crowds and good finances. Sunday night's meeting was a time of power and blessing, and at its close we rejoiced to see one young man decide for Christ. The converts are doing well. We are going to do our best for God in this place, and are sure we shall win, for we fight in the strength of our King. —ours to help, E. M.

A New Brass Band.

Hespeler.—Although the weather is warm and crowds are small, we are determined to win for King Jesus. At the holiness meeting on Sunday morning God's power was felt, and praise God, one backslider started for the Kingdom. The band is practicing hard and big things are expected from them in the near future. God bless the band, and make them soul-winners.—E. B. D.

A Blessed Day.

Comfort Cove, Nfld.—Praise the Lord, we can report victory in this part of the battlefield. Sunday was a blessed day to our souls. God came very near and blessed us. At night we had the joy of seeing one precious soul come forward and give God his heart. Many others were deeply convicted. We are going in by the grace of God for greater victories.—Alfreda Newhook, Lieut.

A Glorious Week-End.

Orillia.—We arrived at Orillia O. K. and met with some smiling faces and happy soldiers. We had a glorious week-end, a wonderful time of blessing. Praise God! At the close of our Sunday meeting we rejoiced in seeing one backslider return to the fountain. We are going in to pull down the devil's kingdom by the grace of God.—Cadet-Lieut. M. J. Langridge.

They Go to the People.

Bracebridge.—We are still in the vineyard of the Lord laboring for His glory. It is very difficult to get the people into the barracks this warm weather, as we sometimes make ourselves known to the people at the hotels by having an hour's open-air meeting with them. Our comrades often come in their working attire, and sometimes we have two solos at once—one in the saloon and the other in the ring—while the rest of the soldiers are praying silently. We believe we shall reap if we faithfully do. Capt. Marshall, for Ensign Hide.

The Right Officers.

Lewistown.—Capt. Miller and Lieut. Buck are proving to be the right people in the right place. Sunday was a good day; large crowds, many were under conviction. We keep believing.—Wallace Sumpter.

Six Months' Hard Labor and Four Times Through the Fire.

Botwoodville.—After six months' hard labor our officers have farwelled. On Friday night one soul professed salvation. About fourteen months ago the fire consumed our barracks for the fourth time. This caused a cloud to overshadow the place, but God is with us, and we are going in for victory.—T. R.

Two Sisters Converted.

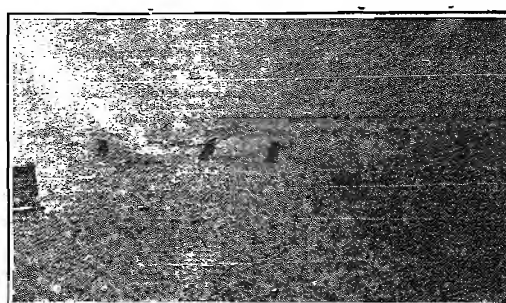

Bridgewater.—We had a special meeting on Wednesday night. The comrades from Lunenburg were present, led by the notable Capt. Armstrong. The meeting was very good. Mrs. Young's singing was enjoyed by the crowd present. Two sisters professed to get saved at the close of Sunday night's meeting. Everything is on the upgrade. A big time is expected on Thursday, when Brigadier Sharp will visit us.—Reporter.

Through a Drill.

North Bay.—We are rejoicing over another week of victory. Both in the open-air and indoor meetings our efforts have been signally owned and blessed of God. On Sunday the Lieutenant and myself farwelled. We ended with a rousing good knee-drill, and throughout the day the presence of God was felt. On Monday, we had an ice-cream social. The Band of Love members also went through a drill.—Capt. Matthews.

The Enemy's Ranks Broken.

Old Pelican.—Since last report the ranks of the enemy have been broken, and five of his followers have come over on the Lord's side. The soldiers are all on fire for God and souls, and we are in for victory.—L. A. Simmons, Capt.

Our Salmon Fisheries, Fraser River, B. C.

Encouraged by the General's Letters.

Goderich.—God is helping us much in our meetings. We hold our public meetings in the Park, which is in the centre of the town. We have very good crowds, and although we do not see many souls, we believe God is working. One man came to us recently and told us he had been saved through something that had been said in one of our meetings. Our soldiers are willing workers. The General's letters are very much appreciated by them, and they try in their lives daily to live out what is there told to them.—J. Crawford, Ensign.

A Friend of Lazarus.

Summerside, P.E.I.—In spite of the devil and the very warm weather we can report victory in our work. We have had a visit from Ensign Parker, with his lantern, which was enjoyed by all. Last Sunday we were pleased to have Ensign Sabine, one of our old officers, with us again. The meetings yesterday were times of power, and God came very near. We finished up with one precious soul crying to God for pardon, making four for the week. We give God all the glory and believe for greater victories than ever we have had before.—Rebello.

Inspired by the Councils.

Greenspond.—Since you last heard from us we have been to council and got wonderfully blessed. We brought some of the inspiration with us, and now are using it to bless others. During the last two weeks God has wonderfully helped us. We have rejoiced over twenty-two souls finding deliverance. A number of them were never saved before. We are going in to do our best to make them into blood-and-fire soldiers. With the aid of Capt. Brace, who has come to help us along, we are going to win.—Ensign Sparks, D.O.

Palms, Grapevines, and Banana Tree Decorations.

St. George's.—We have just had Adj. Graham, D.O., for the week-end. The open-air were attended by large crowds, and all day Sunday God came very near and souls were convicted, but none would yield to the claims of God. Monday night we had a Hindoo meeting, and a large gathering it was. The platform was decorated with palm leaves, grape vines, and banana trees, and the officers and soldiers wore the Indian costume. The whole made a pretty sight for the onlooker to gaze upon. Lieut. Mowbray spoke on the S. A. work in India, and Capt. Clark, who is a speaker of no mean order, gave an account of the work the Army is doing in Japan. Adj. Graham then sang a solo in the French language, which delighted the people; she also gave part of her life-experience, and read from the Word of God. We are praying and believing that great things are going to be accomplished for the Kingdom in St. George's.—E. Astill, Corps-Cadet.

The Barracks too Small.

Newtown, Nfld.—God is still with us. Sunday was a good day, being

EAST ONTARIO NOTES BY CAPT. POOLE.

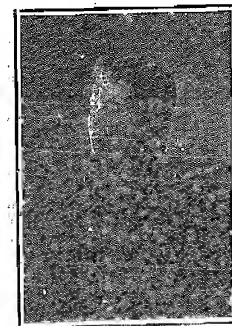

Again I find myself at that noted corps, Campbellford. Amid the beating rays of heat, the gigantic iron horse puffs into the station. Capt. Crogo awaits my arrival. After a few words of greeting he declares he is very busy, but by the time this is in print, we believe the Captain will have secured one of the best assistants in Central Ontario. G. B. M. is on the move here. Mrs. Chase leads the way as host-holder. Mrs. Morton second. Beatrice Fredrick, our Local Agent, has been sleek, but is improving. We had a successful meeting here.

At Belleville you will find Miss Mary Ann Thompson, G. B. M. Agent, busy. Miss Thompson says it is a great work. She has been thinking that she will have to pray especially for the people who have a box. Do it! Miss Thompson's box has the most cash for September quarter. Quinte Hotel is second. Some new box-holders were secured here. Captain Wells is making a move. I noticed some improvement since last visit. Everyone was pleased with the lantern service, which was followed the next night by a red-hot holiness meeting.

I was at Deseronto for a week-end. I reached this place after a refreshing sail down the Bay of Quinte. Capt. Green met me on the dock. We had a meeting at the park, where a good crowd surrounded us. God took hold of our efforts. Sergt. Rodgers stated his book shows the best attendance in the afternoon for a year. At night one backslider boldly rose up and came out, and God, who declares to be married to the backslider, removed from his heart the burden of sin, and he went to his home a free man. To God we give the glory.

A Midsummer Revival.

St. John's I.—We believe in having good times here at No. 1, in hot or cold weather, and we know how to have them, too. We are now having our mid-summer revival, and souls are getting in the cleansing stream. On Sunday we had splendid meetings all day. At 7 o'clock we got orders from the King to open fire on the enemy's trenches, and fresh ammunition was served out. At 11 o'clock the Adjutant gave us an address on abiding in the Vine. He used, as an illustration, a tree, speaking of the different branches, and making it very clear. But the crowning time was at night, when souls came and plunged in the life-giving stream. We finished up with an old-time war-dance. "No surrender" is our motto.—J. Wiseman, Capt.

VARIOUS KINDS OF READERS.

There are four sorts of readers. Hour-glass readers, whose reading runs in and out, and leaves nothing. Sponge readers, who imbibe all, but give out again as they get it, and perhaps not so clean. Jelly-bag readers, who keep the dregs and refuse, and let the pure run through. Diamond readers, who cast aside all that is worthless, and hold only the gems.—Coloridge.

HALIFAX NOTES.

Around the Halifax District with Brigadier Sharp.

By ADJT. DOWELL.

Orders came that our Provincial Officer, Brigadier Sharp, would visit the Halifax District, so notice was sent out to all the officers to prepare for his coming, and on Thursday I boarded the Flying Bluenose for Bridgewater. After a two hours' run, the conductor calls out "Kentville!" As the Brigadier is to come on here, I looked out the window and caught sight of him. He was looking happier and healthier than ever, and his man Friday (Capt. Fleming), if anything, looked thinner than ever, but also was all smiles. We arrived at Bridgewater at 5.15 p.m., and were met at the station by Capt. Miller and her Lieutenant, also Capt. McWilliams, of Lunenburg.

What a beautiful open-air we had at night. How the crowd stood and listened, and when we asked for a collection, they responded nobly. After a rousing time in the open-air, we marched to the barracks, where the Brigadier took hold in proper old-time style. We closed rejoicing over victory in our work.

The next evening we took the train for Lunenburg, which is a beautiful place. We have heard a lot about Lunenburg being a "hard go," but it did not look so to me, and Capt. McWilliams says it is not so. Out of seventeen soldiers on the roll fifteen were on the march. If some of our large corps could do as well proportionately, it would be well indeed. We had a big open-air with a good collection, and big crowds around the ring, listening to the singing of Capt. Fleming and the beautiful address given by the Brigadier. The crowd followed us to the barracks and gave their best attention inside. We rejoiced over another grand meeting.

On Saturday morning we are off to Bridgewater again, and there take a team for a thirty-mile drive to Liverpool. It was a nice day, and the turn-out was A. 1. The D. O. was driver, so something had to go, and we got off, arriving in Liverpool in less time than allowed for it. We met Capt. Tilley and Lieut. McKim all in smiles, glad to see their P. O. and D. O. "Where are we to billet?" is the first inquiry. We are told it is at a hotel. "Are you able to meet the expenses?" says the Brigadier. We are told there are no expenses, so that finished all our questioning. We are delighted with Liverpool. The people are kind. On Saturday night we had another good open-air, and then inside a regular rouser. Oh, how the people swallowed the truth given by the Brigadier! The general verdict was, "It was a lovely meeting." The soldiers live a long distance from the barracks, and there is not much chance for a good attendance at the Sunday morning holiness meetings; but the Captain tells us there is a place about one and a-half miles from the town where the people wish the Army to hold meetings. So we started off, and upon our arrival found some kind of place where had chairs placed in a nice field; we were really in clover. Over 125 people gathered around to listen with the best attention, and gave two dollars and fifty cents in a few minutes in the collection.

The afternoon meeting was held in the barracks. We had a good crowd and a splendid meeting. But at night we completely packed the building. Five souls knelt at the Mercy Seat. We closed at 11 o'clock, tired, but rejoicing greatly.

After lunch we are off on the road, to catch an early train at Bridgewater. It was a lonely drive; nothing to break the monotony until the old horse gets tired and wishes to put his hind legs on board of the rig. We have had kickers occasionally in the corps, and can stand them if they do not come too fast, but kickers on the road are not needed; but we got to Bridgewater in time for the train.

ed to the glory of God. The Army, in many places, is not absolutely free from this danger. The responsibility of the Army is very great. God is using it for His glory and the good of souls, and while it continues to hold up Calvary's Cross, as the great central attraction of the nations, its success is assured.

Arab in the Lead—Currell Maintains Her Unapproachable Position—Another Light Has Risen in the Pacific.

The absence of the Eastern list was explained in our last issue. Arab has an easy time winning, but keeps the lead, anyway, and that deserves credit. The other Provinces show the effect of the heat somewhat, although they bear up well in a way.

Lieut. Currell, however, does not allow rain or heat, wind or calm, to interfere with her sales. She sold 365 copies last week, and there is no one who disputes the Territorial Championship, which she deserves.

Arab, however, has two fine hustlers in Lieut. Erb (261) and Capt. Copeman (230), of London and Brantford respectively. Currell is at Hamilton, and you see Hamilton does not want London or Brantford to beat her. See!

A new hustler of repute has turned up in the Pacific Province. His name is Capt. Hurst, and he is a hero, and she sells 203 copies. Well done! Try again. Victoria once used to sell 600 copies when Ziebarth did the booming. Can't you challenge Lieut. Currell, Capt. Hurst? Try a race for ten weeks.

MEDICINAL USE OF COLD WATER.

"I am beginning to think that cold water is more beneficial than drugs," a friend said to me recently. "When I am sleepless, as I frequently am, I wet a cloth with cold water and hold it alternately at the back of my neck and the pit of my stomach, on my wrists and across my forehead. This lowers my temperature, and leaves me so refreshed that I am usually sure of falling asleep very soon after the application."

"For constipation, I know of no better remedy than a couple of glasses of cold water taken upon retiring, and also the first thing in the morning."

"Rheumatism is also said to flee from a persistent deluging of the system with this simple fluid. A gallon of water should be taken daily, two quarts in the morning before breakfast, and the other two between meals during the day. Of course, this quantity cannot be taken at first, but must be attained gradually. Neither must it be bolted down as one gulps a glass of soda, but taken slowly, with intervals of rest."

"A chronic case came to my notice recently. The lady had been afflicted for a number of years. Her finger joints were crooked and swollen, and she had been a great sufferer. Her physician prescribed a gallon of water daily. She explicitly followed the directions given, until now she tells me she has been entirely free from pain for several years, and her fingers have attained nearly their original shape. Another patient was cured of a very severe attack of rheumatism in four weeks, by simply drinking cold water, and carefully regulating her diet, which consisted mostly in abstaining from sweets and red-blooded meat, beef, in particular."

Rheumatism, constipation, and sleeplessness are three formidable foes. If nature's leverage can successfully grapple with them, is it not well to avoid drugs, and to cleanse the system with pure water, free to all, and unfailing in its supply? An excellent gargle for sore throat is listerine water, in the proportion of one-third listerine to two-thirds water. It is very pleasant to the taste, purifies the breath, and is a good disinfectant. Often troublesome irritation will attack the throat, caused sometimes by a deranged stomach, often the forerunner of a serious cold. This listerine gargle, if taken in season, will prevent the cold from materializing to any great extent. It is an antiseptic which is largely used by the medical fraternity.—Mrs. Helen M. Richards, in N. Y. Observer.

Death sets the solitary in families. We are here like travelers plodding through the night and the storm, and then crossing the threshold into the great hall full of friends.—MacLaren.

THE AMBULANCE CLASS

CHAPTER XXV.

DISINFECTION.

To disinfect bed-linen, clothing, towels, and everything that has been about the patient, place them in a solution made by dissolving sulphate of zinc and common salt in the proportion of four ounces of each to a gallon of hot water.

To disinfect drains, cesspools, sewers, cellars, yards, etc., wash them with a solution made by dissolving sulphate of iron, called copperas, in hot water, in the proportion of one and a-half pounds of copperas to the gallon. In the sick-room fresh air is the best disinfectant.

The discharges from the patient are received in a vessel containing the copperas solution, or should be immediately covered with it. The discharges likely to cause the disease in others are: In typhoid fever, the evacuations of the bowels; in cholera, the evacuations and the vomited matter; in diphtheria, the expectoration. The expectoration of those who are consumptive should be carefully collected in paper boxes, which are made for the purpose, and should be burned before it has an opportunity to dry.

To Disinfect an Unoccupied Room.—Close it as tightly as possible, stopping up the cracks and key-holes. For a room ten feet square, use two pounds of roll sulphur. Place the sulphur in a pan set on a brick placed in a tub, with a little water in the bottom. Heavy blankets, bedding, clothes, and other articles too bulky to be treated with the zinc solution, are opened, and exposed to the fumes of the sulphur. Set the sulphur on fire, and keep the room closed for twenty-four hours.

The above is the method of procedure after a room has been occupied by a person with an infectious or contagious disease.

DIET OF THE SICK.

The kind and amount of food must be determined by the physician, but whatever is ordered should be served in the most tempting manner possible, and that implies neatness and avoidance of excessive quantities that take away the patient's appetite. As soon as the meal is over, every vestige of food should be cleared away.

Milk and eggs are digestible and valuable foods. The flesh of young animals, veal for instance, is not easily digested, while beef and mutton are usually more easily digested than starchy foods, like bread and potatoes. Of course, pork, corned beef, beans, cabbage, and carrots are out of the question.

Beef Tea.—Remove all the fat from a piece of beef, preferably rump steak, cut the meat into small dice-like squares, put them into a saucepan and add a pint of cold water to each pound of meat. Let the saucepan stand two hours in a warm place, where it will not come to a boil, the back of the range, for instance, and at the end of that time, skim off any fat that is floating, but do not remove the brown scum. Now boil for twenty minutes, pass through a coarse colander (not a strainer), or simply pour off the liquid, holding the pieces of meat in with a spoon. Then season with salt and pepper, a little more than for the taste of a well person, and serve hot, a cupful at a time.

This tea should look something like chocolate. The brown particles floating thickly in it are coagulated albumen, and the most valuable portion for food. If they are strained off, you have little more than a solution of salts and flavoring extracts.—Beef Juice is made by cutting up beef for food. If they are strained off, you have little more than a solution of salts and flavoring extracts.—Beef Juice is made by cutting up beef for food. If they are strained off, you have little more than a solution of salts and flavoring extracts.—

Stir two tablespoons of either, previously mixed with cold water, into a pint of boiling water, and boil an hour. Then stir and add salt.

POULTICES.

Poultices are made of different substances, according to the effect desired. For soothing purposes, and to allay inflammation, flax or linseed meal and bread are commonly used, while if we require a counter-irritant mustard is employed.

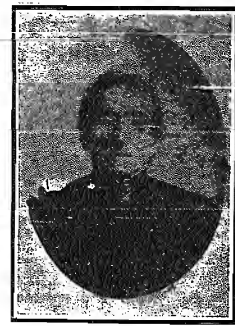

Flaxseed Poultice.—To a little hot water placed in a vessel, previously scalded out to insure everything being hot, flaxseed meal is added gradually and stirred in until a well-mixed, soft, and hot mass is produced of the consistency of very thick paste. This is spread an inch thick on linen or thick muslin, and a piece of thin material (cheese cloth or an old linen handkerchief) laid over it, the edges being folded under on to the back of the poultice.

The object of employing some thin material between the skin and the poultice is to prevent the flaxseed from sticking to the skin. The poultice must be applied hot, and kept warm and moist by thick coverings of cotton batting, flannel, oiled silk, or mackintosh, and must be well-secured in its place.

These poultices are changed once in two or three hours, the old one not being removed until the fresh one is ready to put on immediately.

Bread Poultice.—The bread poultice is made in the same way, using crumbs of stale bread instead of flaxseed meal. By using hot milk instead of water the bread and milk poultice is made. They are applied and managed exactly the same as the flaxseed.

Mustard Poultice or Plaster.—A mustard plaster is made by mixing ground mustard with warm water to a thin paste, which is spread thickly on a piece of cloth or brown paper, and after having a piece of thin material spread over it, it is applied to the skin and kept on until the skin is well reddened, but not blistered. This plaster is usually far too strong to get the best effects. It is better to use one part of mustard to four of flour. Indian meal, flaxseed, oat meal, or bran, may be substituted for the flour. Their only object is to dilute the mustard.

If the poultice is for a child, six to eight times as much flour as mustard should be used.

Boiling or very hot water must not be used to make a mustard poultice, as the heat drives off the volatile oil to which the mustard owes its value as an irritant.

A New Convert 79 Years of Age.

Bonavista.—After being away from the battle one year through sickness, I am pleased to be once more in the thick of the fight. I received my appointment to Bonavista with Adjt. Boggs, and we are having good times. Our latest convert is an old lady 79 years of age. Our faith is high for victory. I had the privilege of attending the councils, which were a great blessing to me.—R. Sainsbury, Capt.

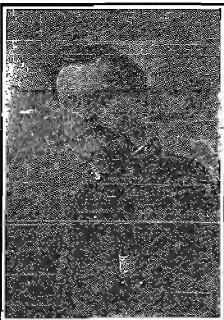

Inspired by Corps Reports.

Moose Jaw.—Seeing reports from other corps and the progress they are making stirs up a greater desire and ambition within us to push on the work of God. The presence of God has been wonderfully manifested in our midst during the past few months, and souls have been won for the Kingdom. Lieut. A. Haugen, who has been stationed with us, has farwelled, and Capt. M. Meyers farewelled on the 27th inst. We shall miss them both, but we wish them God's richest blessing wherever God may see fit to send them, and pray that they may be the means of inspiration and blessing to others.—May Orr.

ORIGINAL SONGS BY ENSIGN
PERRY, T. F. S., CENTRAL
ONTARIO PROVINCE.

Ensign Arthur C. Perry hails from Nova Scotia, and has been an officer for over ten years, eight of which were spent in the Eastern Province. During this time the nature of his appointments has varied—a long list of corps where he worked, interspersed with calls to Special Work being on record. For five years now has Ensign Perry been working in his present capacity—that of Financial Special, holding this position in the Eastern Province, the North-West, and now in Central Ontario. He is almost a constant traveler. In fact, makes his home on the field. The Ensign enjoys his work, and is constantly planning for its success. His special lectures have gained for him notoriety, and have been found attractive and interesting. His latest is a descriptive address on Japan and the Salvation Army.

HOLINESS.

Tune.—Scatter seeds of kindness (B. J. 329).

1 Whiter than the driven snow-flakes,
Purer than the ocean foam,
Like as linen, pure and spotless,
Has my heart by blood become.
Every thought and every purpose
Every act and every way,
Now in accord, blessed Master,
With Thy will for me to-day.

Chorus.

I know the blood has cleansed me,
I know the blood has cleansed me,
I know the blood has cleansed me,
My heart is pure within.

Now the cleansing current flowing,
Makes my heart all pure within.
Every secret crevice cleansing
From the last remains of sin.
And the fire is brightly burning
On the altar of my heart;
Heavenward turned in every yearning,
Sanctified is every part.

In the world, but yet not of it,
Empty is its glittering show,
I am living now above it,
For Christ crucified I know.
I'm determined now to further
Christ's own cause while here I stay,
Longing to be a soul-winner,
Till I'm called from earth away.

TRUST AND GUIDANCE.

Tune.—He's the Lily of the Valley (B.J. 7).

2 Dear Jesus, I have found Thee to be my Pilot true,
My Comfort and my Guiding
Star in life,

I know that Thou wilt guide me life's onward journey through.
'Midst all the joy, the sorrow, and
the strife,
In dangers Thou'll be near me, in calm he near as well,
Thy presence shall my pathway
brighten here;
If storms should sweep around me,
and billows near me rise,
Then with Thee I shall never know a fear.

Chorus.

Thou wilt be near to help me, to guide
me all through life,
I dare not doubt Thy love and power
so strong;
I'll trust Thee to the fullest, in calm
as well as strife.
Thou'll be my Light, my Portion,
and my Song.

If quiet hours and lonely should sometimes be my lot,
And dark and gloomy seem my onward way,

I'll press on through the darkness,
knowing that I ought,
And trust Thee in the night as well
as day.

Then when the clouds are rifted,
and there appears to view
The sunlight of Thy countenance,
O Lord,

My heart shall rise in gladness to know I pressed right through.
While holding to the promise of Thy word.

All power to Thee is given, in heaven and in earth.

Before Thee no opposing force can stand,
Thou art my loving Saviour, my everlasting King.

I'll follow at Thy conquering command.

And when the battle's over, the victory has been won,

If I can only lay down at Thy feet
My glittering crown of conquest, and hear Thy glad "Well done!"

My happiness will then be made complete.

SOLO.

THE OLD HAVE SORROW.

(To be sung slowly, with feeling.)

Tune.—The ship that never returned.

3 To a railway depot, in a far-off
city,

A woman pressed her way;
She was dressed in black, was old and lonely.

On her heart deep sorrow lay,
As she reached the place where the crowd had gathered.

She was lost by the throng,
For they each, intent on separate business.

To the ticket gate moved on.

Chorus.

Ah, the old have sorrow! Yes, the old have sorrow,

But the young and the gay pass by;
They little think that, perchance, on
the morrow,

They may utter grief's sad cry.

Now the little woman at length endeavored

With the crowd through the gate to pass,

But the man on duty demanded her ticket.

Were it first or second-class,
"I'm not going away," said the little woman.

"A ticket I did not buy."

"Then you can't go through; it's against the orders."

Was the gate man's firm reply.

"Ah, sir," said she, "my son is coming."

"Can't help it," was the answer made;

"Stay here where you are, and soon he'll meet you."

Came the answer so cold and staid.

"If he only would, sir," and the voice trembled
As the words from her lips did come.
"But he died last week in a far-off
city.
In his coffin they are bringing him home.

"He was the only one I had —" "Oh, thank you."

Now the gate was open wide,
For touched was the heart of the man at its entrance.

As he heard how her son had died,
Now a friendly hand assisted the
woman.

On whose heart deep sorrow lay;
Soon in the crowd she was lost to vision.

As she passed on her eager way.

SALVATION.

DRIFTING ONWARD.

Tune.—Have you any room for Jesus?
(B.J. 16).

4 Sinner, you are drifting onward,
O'er the moving sea of life,
Daily, hourly, carried forward
With its turmoil and its strife.

Chorus.

O'er the waters rings the message,
Jesus will your frail barque guide;
If you let Him be your Pilot
You are safe whatever be the tide.

Ah, the world has such attractions,
Towards its gale you are turned,
Eagerly seeking satisfaction,
While the things of God you've spurned.

Yes, you're ever kept in motion,
Tossed about by changing winds,
And the billows' wild commotion
Cause you care—yes, sorrow brings.

Ah, your barque that long has drifted,
Soon eternity's shore will reach,
Then by surging billows lifted,
Will be wrecked upon its beach.

2nd Chorus.

Then no more will ring the message
That you heard on life's rough sea,
For no help will then be given,
In that dark eternity.

COME TO THE SAVIOUR.

Tune.—Come in the twilight.

5 Come to the Saviour, come, come to-day.

Seek His forgiveness, come while you may;

He will receive you, make you His own.

Oh, weary hearted, come.

Chorus.

He will pardon all the guilty past,
In His sunlight you may ever bask;
Truly His favor is life to all,
On sinner, on Him call.

Come to the Saviour, for you lie
walls,

Longing to open to you the gates
That lead to pardon, purity, and home.

Oh sin-sick soul, now come.

Come to the Saviour, time passes by,
Jesus entreals you now to draw nigh;
Oh do not longer in evil roam,
But, wandering soul, now come.

Come to the Saviour while He is near,
He lives to help you; oh, do not fear;
Ere death o'ertakes you and you go down,

Oh trembling soul, now come.

SUNDAY NIGHT SOLO.

Tune.—The waters of Jordan may roll

6 When the lamp of life flickers, about to go out,
And friends say their last goodbye,

Will your spirit to heaven triumphantly be sent.

Or will you in darkness die?

Chorus.

For death's river you surely must cross.

Eternity's shore lies to view,
Say, will you then suffer all loss,
Or will it be gain to you?

The past, with its memories, may be quite uncalled,
And bring to your mind misap-
pointed years;

But why they've been wasted you
scarcely will grieve,
But think of it only with tears.

The tears of a death-bed can't undo
the past.

Nor close the sharp pang of regret,
Your mind you will find when years sinking fast.

Past sin will then fall to forget.

Life is real and earnest, and swift passing by.

To time you will soon bid adieu;
Then live so you'll hear the Saviour's
"Well done."

When life's journey here will be through.

PRAYER MEETING CHORUSES.

Tune.—Oh, yes, there's salvation for you.

Oh, come to the Cross, there is room!
Oh, come to the Cross, there is room!
He is waiting just now to receive you,
Oh, come to the Cross, there is room!

Tune.—The old, old story is true.

Oh, come to Jesus just now,
Oh, come to Jesus just now,
For He will receive you and make you
His own.

Oh, come to Jesus just now.

Tune.—You've carried your burden.

You've sinned your Saviour,
You've sinned His call.

Then come in contrition,
Before Him now fall;
Acknowledge your sin, and Believe in His word.

For He will receive you and make you
His own.

Oh, come to Jesus just now.

Tune.—There'll be no more sorrow
there.

I'll seek Thy pardon now,
I'll seek Thy pardon now,
I do believe Thou wilt receive,
I'll seek Thy pardon now.

Tune.—Oh, where is my boy to-night?

Oh, will you be saved to-day?
Oh, will you be saved to-day?
The Saviour pleads, oh, will you not heed,

And give Him your heart to-night?

Tune.—There's a work for you and a work for me.

There's a pardon free, yes, a pardon
free.

Waiting, poor sinner, just now for thee.

There's a pardon free, yes, a pardon
free.

Waiting, poor sinner, just now for
thee.
